

I oppose all efforts to weaken Indiana's "no-call" law currently in effect in any way. By attempting to allow ANY unsolicited sales calls into my home would be disruptive. It is very easy for the solicitors to mislead people, and I have found that you can answer Yes, to one question (such as "is this.....?" and you then decline their service, or have to hang up, you are still trapped into the service they are selling, because they take the Yes to your name and splice it into Yes for the answers they want. Also, most telephone solicitors are not from the United States, but from other countries trained to speak from their text only and speak so quickly that they are impossible to understand. So, PLEASE...do NOT ALLOW THE CBA's request to change our law. Thank you for your time.
